Dear parents and carers,

From the Friday 17th November Samuel White's Infant School will be linking its Twitter feed to the school website and the school Facebook page. The Tweets will continue to contain photos with no names as before.

The main change will be that @samuelwhites will be an open account like Hanham Abbots Junior School, so wider family members and friends can see the pictures and the wonderful learning that takes place in school. This means parents will no longer need permission to follow @samuelwhites.

If you would prefer your child(ren) to no longer appear in Twitter posts please complete and return the form below by the Friday 17th November.

Please note, if you have already requested that your child is not included on our social media pages, then this will continue to be the case.

I no longer wish for my child to be included in photos on the Samuel White's Infant School open Twitter feed.
